

Post-secondary students receiving maltreatment-related intervention services were rarely enrolled in degree-granting programs

- 133 post-secondary students in Alberta were receiving maltreatment-related intervention services in Alberta in 2008/09.
- Over half (53%) of post-secondary students receiving intervention services were enrolled in no credential programs. In contrast, over half (55%) of students not receiving such services were enrolled in degree-granting programs.
- 38% of students receiving intervention services were pursuing a certificate or diploma, compared with 26% of those not receiving intervention services.
- For more information, see our report Post-Secondary Students in Alberta.

